I. Course description

This course is designed to help students develop a deeper understanding of advanced principles of English grammar. It will specifically allow them to examine how grammar works in academic settings and to apply this knowledge into their writing and speaking. The course is designed to build upon students' grammatical command of English achieved in previous courses, and more specifically on those included in LM-0356 (English Grammar V). Authentic texts and texts produced by students will be used to analyze grammatical phenomena that are distinctive of academic oral and written communication.

This course has a high virtuality component (75% virtual and 25% on ground). Mediación Virtual will be used to share resources and materials as well as instructions and guidelines for on ground and virtual lessons. Virtual lessons may be synchronous and asynchronous. Synchronous lessons will be carried out through the Zoom platform or any other app that the professor requires.

II.Objectives

General objective

Upon completion of this course the student will have reliably demonstrated the ability to justify the choice of particular grammatical structures in academic writing or speaking through proper syntactical analysis.

IV. Methodology

Most of the class time will be dedicated to the analysis of grammatical structures used in academic settings. The major syntactical elements will be presented through lectures and text analysis. Students, on their part, will be given the chance to analyze texts individually, in pairs or in groups and report on their findings. During class time, students will be presented with authentic texts from academic sources to get them acquainted with different registers and rhetorical patterns. Also, students' own academic texts can be used for syntactical analysis and comparison. Students are expected to read the material out of class and come prepared with questions that will be used as input for learning activities.

Lessons will be mostly virtual. They may be developed synchronously and asynchronously, which is why it is imperative that all students have access to Mediación Virtual and their institutional email account (@ucr.ac.cr). These will be the official means of communication between the professor and the students

In addition, evaluations (quizzes and exams) will be carried out on-ground, so attendance to in-person lessons is expected. The aforementioned evaluations will take place in the assigned classrooms.

V. Evaluation

TOTAL	100%
Test II (on ground)	 25%
Test I (on ground)	 25%
Portfolio (online)	 25%
Quizzes (at least 3; on ground)	 25%

The learning portfolio consists of a collection of students' learning experiences during the development of the course. After each course section, determined by the topics covered, students are expected to look through articles in their academic discipline and find examples of the grammatical structures or syntactical topics studied in class. These samples will be analyzed and collected in a portfolio, which will be evaluated at different points during the semester. The data collection and analysis will be done in groups to reinforce cooperation and collaborative work.
